Parish vigilant about any over development

Keeping a close eye on building changes that might have an adverse affect on the quality of life within the parish, is a major role for Great Linford Parish Council.

GLPC is consulted about some nine planning applications each month. Most, for conservatories, extensions to family homes or the enlargement of factory units, are approved without comment after consideration by GLPC Councillors.

Part of the parish is a Conservation Area, where any alteration requires planning permission. In all but a few applications, GLPC make no comment but in four cases, where it was felt the proposals were not in keeping with the local style, GLPC objected and MK Council refused permission, so GLPC's opinion can influence the planning process

WITHDRAWN

Recently GLPC objected to MKC about a plan to demolish two detached houses and build 28 flats on the site. This would have significantly increased the agreed density, and was out of keeping with local housing. This application was withdrawn after opposition from residents, MK councillors and parish councillors.

Major developments, in and adjacent to the parish, at Gyosei playing fields, and Rocla Pipes site on Wolverton Road, were also scrutinised by GLPC. These large developments, devised by English Partnerships, will add a large number of apartments and high-density houses to the area, in every case without enhancing the existing schools, surgeries, shops or open space. Whilst GLPC has been able to influence the plans for these two schemes - Gyosei has twice been refused planning permission - government and EP policy will ensure that they are built. However, GLPC will continue to press for lower densities and more open space, as we have come to expect in the parish.

'GLPC will continue to press for lower densities and more open space'

GLPC's greatest concern is over the 40 HiMO (Houses in Multiple Occupation) applications made in the last two years, mostly in Conniburrow. A HiMO converts a dwindling stock of family dwellings into four or five individually rented rooms, one of which is more than likely the former carport. GLPC policy accepts the need for HiMOs, but requires them to be limited in size, facilities and extent, if they are to be integrated into the social structure of a previously mixed and balanced residential area. Cricketers on a sound wicket thanks to new artificial pitch

With the uncertainty these days about when summer ends (or begins!) the introduction of an all-weather pitch at one of its cricket grounds could put Great Linford Parish Council (GLPC) on a safe wicket.

The recent installation of an £8,000 artificial pitch at its Marsh Drive sports ground will help to ensure that fixtures can be played, regardless of the weather.

This represents an investment by GLPC, not only in ensuring that fees are not lost because of matches being cancelled, but means that the cricket fraternity get to complete scheduled games, without any disruption.

The cricket clubs who use GLPC cricket pitches at Marsh Drive and the High Street Great Linford, have recorded their appreciation of the facilities provided and maintained by the Parish Council. Clubs playing regularly during the season are; Stony Stratford 3rd XI, New City CC, Printers CC and the North Bucks Ambulance CC.

As praise goes, an endorsement from Stony Stratford Cricket Club says an awful lot. 'The wicket generally plays well and the surroundings make for an ideal image of a traditional English cricket pitch. The clubhouse facilities meet the needs of all, and the overall impression is of a ground that easily holds its own when compared to a number of other clubs that we visit, both in our Division and in those above it.'

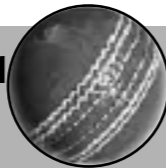

The praise comes from Neil Fewtrell, the Spotlight on some of the teams who regularly play on GLPC's two cricket grounds fixture secretary of the Stony Stratford Cricket Club and 3rd XI vice-captain and who, alongside other MK teams, regularly use the cricket pitches provided by the Parish Council.

Stony Stratford Cricket Club

Stony Stratford CC is a substantial club, founded in 1898, which runs three Saturday teams within the Northamptonshire County Leagues; two Sunday sides (league and friendly), and Junior Cricket for almost 100 youngsters of all ages and abilities. Their Saturday 3rd XI, who have just had their most successful year, use the facilities at Great Linford for all home games and have been regular tenants for a number of years.

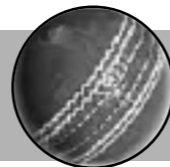

Like all 3rd XIs, the team's primary aim, whilst always competitive, is to bring the taste of adult league cricket to the younger players, balanced alongside the experience of more mature players, and those rediscovering their form, says Neil. All of this means that a huge percentage of the club's members will have played at Great Linford over the years – indeed over 35 players turned out for the 3rd XI in 2006 alone!

The standard of cricket is high – on a 45 over per side; win/lose basis, Great Linford is regularly host to innings scores of over 200 runs, and close finishes late into summer evenings.

Most players are local, with a number from the village itself. As to success, the Saturday 3rd XI has a recent record of "always the bride" finishing the last three seasons just one place off from automatic promotion. This year however, the club has secured both promotion and the division championship by a considerable margin and remain unbeaten at home. 'The general view of the pitch and of the facilities, from the team and from visitors, is hugely positive,' says Neil. 'The only improvement we could suggest would be to have sightscreens, necessary when we achieve promotion and are required in Division 8 and above.'

New City Cricket Club

New City Cricket Club was formed in the early 80s to organise friendly games with various local clubs and get to know the cricketing fraternity of MK. The name of the club was aptly named New City to embrace the spirit of MK, says Sharad Dave, the club's acting secretary. He commends Great Linford Parish Council, for securing funding to improve the playing facilities. Says Sharad: 'The addition of the artificial pitch and also the improvements to the pavilion and the extra parking facilities are welcome and supported wholeheartedly by all the New City Club membership.' New City is hoping to reintroduce a youth team next season and the additional facilities for outdoor net practice and so on, would make a big difference, he says.

New City's association with Great Linford is still going strong after more than 20 years. Over this long period the club has played in various leagues and at many grounds but by comparison the Marsh Drive ground is one of the finest and was voted in 2001 to be in the top three grounds in the South Northants League by the opposition team captains. Expertly prepared by Richard Bryce [of Sport-Service] the ground has further improved, says Sharad.

New City has also grown over the years. In 1991 the Club increased membership and introduced a second team after a short period by the first Youth Team of U11s and in its second year was runner up in the Colts Competition and later on were also runners up in the local Hair Moda U16s cup competition played at the Campbell Park.

The senior teams have also achieved a number of promotions to the premier divisions in all the various leagues the club has participated in. The club has also won various cup competitions over this period.

At present the club participates in the Millman Cricket League of Bedfordshire with the first team in the first division and the second team in the second division.

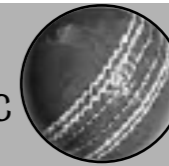

The Printers Cricket Club

The Printers Cricket Club was set up in 1963 as Bletchley Printers, changing its name some two years later to McCorquodale Printers, and then eventually breaking away from any kind of association with a printing firm, to simply being known throughout Milton Keynes as "The Printers" since 1981. As Dave Moulson, the club chairman explained, the club has had something of a nomadic existence, changing name and venues over the course of its history finally settling in Great Linford some 12 years ago. 'As a team, we feel very welcome at Great Linford, and we would like to establish ourselves as an intrinsic part of the parish community. At present, the team has only one member living within the parish boundaries and are keen to rectify this. We would welcome any interest from new players and the club would particularly benefit from an injection of youth. We are a self-funding club and enjoyment in the game is the most important quality that we look for in any player.' Anyone interested players should contact Dave Moulson on 07850 713 253.

North Bucks Ambulance CC

Just as the Printers name is a reflection of how that team began, the North Bucks Ambulance Cricket Team also reflects its origins, as Martin O'Dowd explains. Martin is a paramedic for South Central Ambulance service in the Milton Keynes area. Martin and his friend and colleague, Dan Holliday, decided to start their own CC as they felt there were enough people working in the service to make up a team. The club started with Martin as chairman, Dan as the club's captain and another colleague, Ted Fawcett, as treasurer. The trio joke that 'we only started the club to make sure we could get a regular game', says Martin. The club played their first match in June 04 and played several friendlies. In 2005 they joined the Milton Keynes Sunday league and took on a dilapidated wicket at Deanshanger sports and social club. The team hankered for a decent home ground so Martin contacted GLPC Parish Manager Jenny Sharp, and this led to starting the 2007 season at Marsh Drive.

The club are very happy with the ground in general, says Martin. 'The facilities are good, the pitch is well maintained and the ground is peaceful and pleasant to look at. If I could change anything, it would be to bring the pitch slightly closer to the clubhouse (or vice versa!).'

Martin says that the Club has thought about a change of name and would, he says, 'certainly consider doing so as part of a sponsorship deal.'

One problem is the shift work of many players, so putting out the same team twice is very difficult. 'As we started as a work team and do not represent an area, encouraging new players and also young people has been difficult,' he says. 'However, we have steadily built up a strong squad and we are proud to be a multi-cultural club. Apart from Bangladesh and the Windies all the test playing nations are represented in the squad.'

The ethos of the team is fun. 'We want to win but that is not the force that drives us,' says Martin. 'The club has a handful of very fine players who could grace the game at a much higher level.' Some of the best players are from South Africa, Zimbabwe and Sri Lanka. 'I do wonder if that reflects a more outdoor lifestyle, where sports are encouraged from a young age and there is not so much of watching the TV all day!' On his wish list is 'an all weather practice net and perhaps sightscreens.' Log onto www.nbacc.co.uk

New artificial pitch at Marsh Drive is thanks to Grantscape

The Parish Council is now the proud owner of an artificial cricket wicket, thanks to the generosity of Grantscape (Funding for the Environment), who gave a magnificent grant of £7,250. The wicket has been installed at the Marsh Drive Sportsground and is for the primary use of the new Great Linford Youth Cricket Team. It is also available for practice for adult teams and for general use by the public. The Youth Cricket Team thoroughly enjoyed their first season and look forward to 2008. Having lost some of our squad who are now too old for the youth league, we do need a few more players, and we are able to take 12 to 15 year olds to train with us from early in the New Year.

Visit our website www.greatlinfordyouthcc.co.uk, or e-mail us at: glycc@greatlinfordyouthcc.co.uk

We would also welcome any business within in the Parish who would like to sponsor this exciting new team. We would in particular really like some matching sweaters and caps and would happily use company logos on them. If you can help to support the team in any way, contact Jenny Sharp on 606613 or 217752 or e-mail glinfordparish@btconnect.com

Community support officers: 'The friendly face of policing'

WORDS: Malcolm Lane PICTURES: David Stabler

It is a long way from farming 3,500 acres in Zimbabwe, to pounding the streets of Milton Keynes. It is also quite a change of lifestyle for 'Doc' de Villiers, one of three newly appointed Police Community Support Officers (PCSOs) who are operating within the Great Linford Parish Council area.

While the job of surviving under the regime of Robert Mugabe was not easy, Doc had no illusions that his duties as a PCSO on Conniburrow, Downs Barn, Downhead Park, Tongwell and Willen Park, would be a walk in the park.

Zimbabwean born Doc, (his mother hails from Bournemouth!) came to the UK with his wife and two daughters, two years ago. His choice of Milton Keynes was easy - he has family here. With the state of the UK farming industry, taking up his former role here, was not an option. 'From what I can see, the farmers here are having quite a hard time of it,' he says. With an experienced eye, he says that the pressure by the large supermarkets on farmers to keep costs down, is taking its toll on farmers.

Doc faced much more pressure in Zimbabwe under the Mugabe dictatorship, which seized his mixed arable and livestock farm as part of that government's strategy of relieving white farmers of their livelihood.

SEIZED HIS FARM

Not that Doc sounds bitter. In fact, he seems to have adopted the attitude of a time-served copper, with that kind of laid-back, "I've seen it all before approach." While PCSOs are not police officers, their role is like that of the old "Beat Bobby" and they carry out many of the policing functions but without all of the powers that a police officer has.

There are, nevertheless duties that PCSOs share with police officer colleagues, as Michelle Morgan found out shortly after becoming a PCSO. Picture the scene. You are on the third day on the beat as a Police Community Support Officer (PCSO) when a lady runs up to you and points to two young men who are hot-footing it away who, she says, have just threatened her with a knife and robbed her of her handbag. What do you do? 'You give chase' says Michelle Morgan, who, along with her police officer mentor, chased, caught and arrested them.

'It was quite an interesting start,' says Michelle, with more than a hint of irony. It is certainly a contrast to her previous job as a holiday rep in Bulgaria. There she was more concerned with chasing lost luggage and 'lost' tourists, and organising their entertainment. Michelle grew up in Bletchley and went to Lord Grey School. She worked for a number of MK companies, before deciding she would rather be 'out and about, and talking with people'. Now she has the daily contact with people and the ever changing scene that makes her tick. The area Michelle has to cover every day, on foot or on bicycle, is Great Linford, Neath Hill, Gifford Park, Blakelands, Bolbeck Park and Pennylands.

NOT INTIMIDATING

What she has already found out, is that people find PCSOs are a reassuring presence. 'I think this is because while a police officer's role is to arrest people, a PCSO can actually stop and talk to people. I think we are the friendly face of policing,' she says. Any fear that at just 5' 2" tall, she might lack the necessary authority, is not her experience. Maybe she gets her ability with young people from her mum Tricia, a teacher at Lord Grey School. 'Being approached by a 6'4" beefy policeman can be intimidating, whereas some people seem to find it easier to talk to me. I chat with some of the so-called "bad-lads" and they seem quite at ease with me,' says Michelle.

Fellow PCSO Stephanie Mason agrees that creating empathy with likely miscreants is a strategy that seems to be working. With a degree in Sociology and Criminology, Stephanie Mason seems ideally qualified to be a PCSO.

Raised in Milton Keynes, Stephanie attended Wellsmead School in Bletchley until aged 10, when her family moved to

PCSO No. 9941 'Doc' de Villiers on patrol

Great Yarmouth to set up a residential home for people with learning difficulties. Stephanie has considerable experience of working with people with learning difficulties, and has a GNVQ in Health and Social Welfare. She returned to study for a degree at Northampton University, and then became a member of the Milton Keynes Adult Education English As A Second Language unit at Cofferidge Close in Stony Stratford. Stephanie believes her experience has given her empathy with people and their problems. Getting into the community, talking to people and getting involved, is key to the role of a PCSO, says Stephanie, who covers Conniburrow, Downs Barn, Downhead Park and Willen Park.

FACILITATOR

'It is about making communities feel safer and making it a much better place for them to live', she says. She believes that many people feel isolated these days much more than 50 or 60 years ago. 'People do not feel part of a community any more and many don't want to know their neighbours.' She believes this is because people lead such busy lives. 'As a kid we all knew our neighbours, but now people are paranoid about leaving their kids with other people.'

Stephanie sees her role as a facilitator, helping to bring the community together. 'By getting to know families and youngsters, they are less likely to do something wrong, because they know you and you know them.'

People are delighted to see her, she says. 'I wish I had a £1 for everyone who has said that to me. They seem genuinely happy to see us - they say they feel safer because we're there.'

PCSO 9940 Stephanie Mason at Southwood School, on Conniburrow.

Stephanie also feels she has to counteract what she feels is a negative image that people have of the police. 'We don't want people to see PCSOs the same way. We want them to see us as a friendly face,' she says.

How PCSOs wider brief can help prevent crime

Police Community Support Officers (PCSOs) are uniformed support staff whose role is to complement the work of police officers working within a community. PCSOs use their powers to tackle lower level crime and disorder, and nuisance and anti-social behaviour, which helps free up time for the regular officers to concentrate on more serious crimes and incidents. They carry out high visibility patrols which help dramatically increase the police service presence throughout Thames Valley Police area.

As PCSOs operate on their own patch, they are able to tackle some issues that help to make people feel safer and also lead to a reduction in crime.

At Neath Hill, for example, incidents of anti-social behaviour have occurred in what is known locally as 'the Mound', near

St. Monica's School. Because of overgrown bushes, groups of youngsters have gathered to drink and become rowdy, and rubbish has also been dumped. Thanks to PCSO Michelle Morgan, working with local Police Constable Heather Denton, MK Council have cut back the planting so that the area is less hidden, and therefore less likely to be somewhere for groups to congregate. Young people net football tournament

Young people in Great Linford Parish are to benefit from a community football tournament to be delivered by Nacro, the crime reduction agency, and supported by Great Linford Parish Council. The tournament is for young people aged 9 to 14 years and will be on the 24th October in the half term week.

The 5-a-side tournament will consist of two parts, 9 to 11 year olds from 12.00 till 14.30 and 12 to 14 year olds from 14.30 to 17.00. The tournament is free to enter and there will be medals and trophies to be won.

The tournament is open to young people across Great Linford Parish who are encouraged to enter a team with their friends. To guarantee a place young people are advised to pre register their team or otherwise attend one of Nacro's sports sessions on a Monday or Wednesday evening from 6 to 7.30pm at Downs Barn Pavilion, Pannier Place.

Stuart White, Nacro Project Coordinator said: 'The aim of the event is to provide a positive activity for young people to get involved in during their half term holiday. We want to provide an opportunity for young people to turn up with their mates and enter a team in a tournament that has a fun and friendly feel to it.' For more information contact Stuart White on 07920 571603 or email him at: stuart.white@milton-keynes.gov.uk.

Richard takes best in show

It was a big shock, I never expected to win best in show. That was what Richard Potton told News & Views when presented with the trophy for the most show points at the fifth Great Linford Parish Allotment Association Produce Show. This was held in a crowded Memorial Hall, filled with fellow GLPC allotment holders, on August Bank Holiday Monday. 'I think between us, my wife and I collected over 20 awards for produce, baking and pickles. I have really enjoyed taking part in the show,' said Richard, who has been an allotment holder at Neath Hill for the last four seasons. When asked about the rain and lack of sunshine this year, Richard explained: 'I don't think Neath Hill allotments have been as badly affected with rainfall and standing water as some other sites.' Nevertheless, despite success with his plot, Richard lost all 14 outdoor tomato plants to blight. Everything else seems to have thrived, leading to his undoubted 2007 show success.

'It is all about the work you put in from which you reap the rewards but there is a bit of luck in there I suppose, with the weather' admitted Richard. 'Although I work shifts, I manage to get seven to eight hours a week on the plot, with help from my wife'. Richard's tip for the top prizes is: 'Just put plenty of hard work in there when you first get your plot, and keep at it. On one of my two plots in my first year I had to move a lot of rubbish, wood and some tyres, it took me six months to clear it out.'

LATE THIS YEAR

Last year's best in show winner John Green had prize awards this year for red and white potatoes, onions, apples and pears but admitted that it 'had been a strange year from a growing point of view' on his Bells Meadow allotment. John has had his single plot for the last four years. 'You would have thought that with all the rain, everything would have grown big. Despite the earlier dry spell seeds germinated but then things like marrows just didn't grow, which you would think would be fantastic but mine are still the size of small courgettes' explained John. 'Things are later this year, my marrows and pumpkins will be all right at the end of September. But I suppose it is like farmers isn't it? The weather is never right!' laughed John. 'Plenty of water, no sunshine too much sunshine, no rain.' he quipped. 'For instance this year not many sweetcorns are entered in the show, last year there was a table especially for sweetcorn.' Asked 'what makes a good allotment' John explained: 'You would think that by digging in lots of manure the soil would get better but it doesn't seem to', he joked. 'I think if you put tons and tons and tons of manure on your plot the local clay would keep coming back.' When it is sunny it turns into concrete and when wet it's like a quagmire and to be honest it is the sowing of seeds in clay that is the most difficult part.'

Dave Meara, from the Hills Close site told News & Views: 'I have won more prizes this year, including bramble jelly, shallots, strawberries, a second prize for apples and also for my photographs, I am delighted but it has been hard work. 'I think there are fewer entries this year due to the bad weather. You can see that some categories haven't got many entries at all, such as squashes and pumpkins and my potatoes were not very good,' he said. 'My root vegetables have generally not been good but later varieties will do well but are too early for this show.' Dave is not sure how many poles his allotment has. 'It is quite a big plot, and it is a lively site at Hills Close, so I spend a lot of time on my allotment plot as I do enjoy it so much.'

A guide to the GLPC website and the information available at: www.great-linford.gov.uk

The GLPC web Home page has four parts. At the top are the pictures, banner and introduction. Under this are three sections 'Useful links', 'What's happening' and 'About GLPC'. These are interactive and have information GLPC believes is useful to residents. Move your mouse cursor across the web page to highlight a clickable link to a new web page and for the latest information.

In News & Views issues 15 & 16 we looked at what lies behind 'Useful links' information on local clubs, bus train and flights, entertainment guides and weather reports and 'What's happening' the GLPC news page

Under the heading 'About GLPC' is listed all the information you need to know about GLPC, its Councillors and policies, parish facilities, facts and figures and how local groups can apply for a GLPC grant.

Other headings have links to pages with details of Council Meetings, Facilities, Planning Applications, Viewpoint and Newsletters. These links have obvious relevance for instance double clicking on Council Meetings opens a list, how GLPC operates, meeting dates and committees. Click on these page links to access the information and read the monthly committee minutes. Always use the 'Back' button to return to your starting point on the page to access another section.

By double clicking on Planning Applications you open a list of applications and decisions made. Heading the list is 'The Whys and Wherefores of Planning Applications'. This page will help you understand the planning process and how you can become involved. It has links to the Milton Keynes Council web site from which you can read the detailed reports prepared for the MKC Development Control Committee or learn how you can object to an application affecting your area. Try the links. You will be surprised at how much information you can find with just a few mouse clicks. But remember, always use the 'Back' button to return to your starting point on the link or the GLPC Web Home page. DS

Sharp Tongue

Jenny Sharp - GLPC Parish Manager has her say

The complaints we get are identical from month to month; we still have people who think it is perfectly acceptable to start putting out rubbish bags the day after their last collection, and those that think they have every right to park their cars either blocking the footpath or on the grass verge. These people are generally anti-social and have no thought for their neighbours or the environment they live in, and their gardens are a mess with hedges restricting the pavements, their cars leak oil, their music is loud and they don't give a damn. They are intent on living their type of lifestyle regardless of the impact it has on other people. We will continue to help with these problems, but the powers available to the Parish Council are limited. Another constant source of complaint is the landscape maintenance in the Parish. Whilst we wholeheartedly accept that the standard is less than acceptable, and while we will continue to press for an improvement, I feel residents need to be realistic when it comes to trees and shrubs.

EXCESS PLANTING

The Development Corporation planted an excessive amount of both, assuming that a large majority would not survive. This turned out not to be the case and as a result, the Milton Keynes Council have inherited a problem they have little hope of conquering. It would take the whole of each household's council tax to get on top of the problem and obviously this is not feasible. They are doing the very best they can, mostly on a re-active rather than pro-active basis and do take action where there is a danger to the public. The Landscape Officers are very co-operative and work closely with the Parish Council. We will continue with this relationship and will also strive to have the standards of grass cutting improved to that which we all came to expect a few years ago.

On a positive note, you can easily spot the difference between the two pictures (above). The first is of the previously derelict smallholding site in Loriner Place, Downs Barn, while the second is how the site has been transformed since the Parish Council acquired the freehold to the land.

It is now a pleasant, safe open space which can be used by local people as a general recreation space. All we ask is that dogs are not allowed to foul this land, although we are happy for them to be in there. Remember, the next person to use the area may be a child!
